

HTML Review:

- see if you can make the header image go across the top of the page and put the navigation below it, if unable to no worries!
- a little more padding on the sides of the text so the page doesn't have this long string of text
- a little more top padding between sections so the sections are distinctive
 - also more padding within the sub sections so those are a little more distinctive